'WOLF BOY' FOU

An abandoned child has been living like a wild beast in Romania's harsh Transylvania region, where he survived for years by eating dead animals.

The wolf boy, whose age is estimated at 7 years, was rescued by a passing shepherd who found him in a forest one frigid morning — starved, frostbitten, half-naked and covered with bites and scratches.

He was eating a dead dog and his face was dripping with blood, according to the police who captured him and brought him to the hospital.

But after a great deal of love and care from the medical staff, the traumatized tyke is showing signs of recovering from his ordeal and returning to his own species.

He is slowly responding to the friendship of a fellow patient, and has started smiling and even repeating simple words to the few people he trusts.

By AMBROSE CLARK
Weekly World News

"He is still kind of angry all the time," said Budila Sorin, the 47-year-old patient who has taken the boy under his wing.

Hospital workers call him Moughli — a Romanian version of the name that writer Rudyard Kipling gave to his wild young hero in the classic Jungle Book.

And some say the little nipper shows all the signs of having been raised by wolves, like the fictional Mowgli.

He grunts rather than speaks, lopes through the hallways like a forest animal, and is generally a wild child — urinating on the floor and walls, snarling at anyone who ticks him off, and even attacking other patients if they don't approach him with great care.

Moughli also prefers to sleep in the dark, cave-like area under his bed, and is constantly prowling for food — often stealing it.

"He becomes very agitated when he does not have food," said Dr. Mircea Florea, a surgeon at the hospital. "He is looking for something to eat all the time.

"He was found in a fetal position and his movements are animalistic," Dr. Florea said. "The facts show he was not brought up in a social environment, and might have been abandoned a long time ago."

Doctors think he might be the child of Romanian gypsies, who either lost him or cruelly dumped him in the woods to fend for himself.

Moughli is not the first child to be found in an animal-like state after years of abandonment in the wild.

His case recalls the true story of an orphaned boy who was found in the woods in 18th-century France.

That amazing incident was the basis for French

Physically, Moughli was barely surviving his ordeal when he was found. Malnutrition gave him rickets, anemia and a distended belly. He looks only 4 or 5 years old, but doctors guessed he is 7 because of his teeth.

Thankfully, all of those conditions are curable. Doctors, nurses and his new friend Budila also are trying to help Moughli reenter the human world — and learn to trust his own species again.

FIGHT CLUB
FRAT BOY STYLE

A group of rowdy frat boys created their own brutal fight club, just like the one in the hit Brad Pitt movie — with one key difference: Instead of duking it out themselves, the bratty cowards nabbed homeless men off the street and made them fight in the ring like pit bulls, a source reveals.

By GEORGE SANFORD
Weekly World News

Members of the Kappa Alpha Order at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville got bums off the street, "liquored" them up, gave them large boxing gloves and "let them go to town," the chapter's president Patrick Diener told the campus newspaper, The Daily Beacon.

The disgusting human-cockfight allegations sent shockwaves through the campus. In the wake of the scandal, the 86-member chapter has had its charter suspended by furious bigwigs in the national KA organization.

If the allegations proved true, the outrageous Animal House conduct would constitute not only cruel abuse of the homeless — a case of "hobo-phobia" — but also violate the time-honored principles of the more than 100-year-old fraternity.

According to the KA Web site, "Kappa Alphas are revered as the gentlemen of the fraternity world. A KA, through his gentility, should always be distinguished by his modern chivalric characteristics."

As if sickening bum vs. bum gladiatorial matches weren't bad enough, Diener also claimed that gambling and conventional cockfights — with roosters — were rampant in the frat house basement and that strippers were regularly brought in for entertainment.

"We usually hire a stripper about once a week," Diener, who's since stepped down as president, told the school paper.

A follow-up investigation, however, has cast doubt on the wild claims. University officials insist the whole homeless boxing-match story was a pack of lies.

"Every indication is that the former president of the fraternity fabricated the story because he was mad at the national organization," vice chancellor and vice provost Tim Rogers told Weekly World News in an exclusive interview.

Senior Caleb Darby, a Kappa Alpha member, also denied the charges.

"We're all God-fearing gentlemen," he told a reporter. "Everything that Diener said was completely a joke."

BRAD PITT took a beating in Fight CLub, but cowardly frat boys hired bums to punch each other to a bloody pulp, like these big lugs.

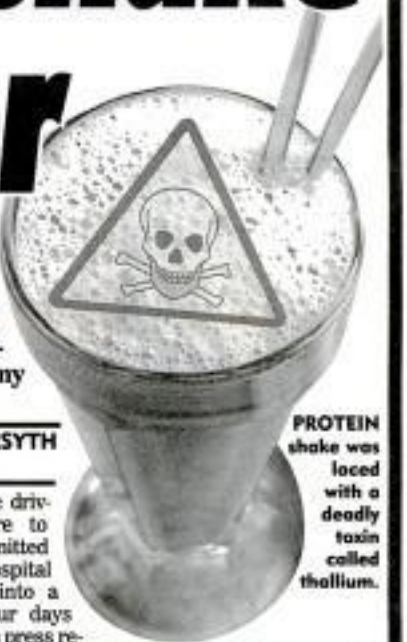
Milk shake murder

A homemade malted milk shake mixed by your girlfriend might sound like a terrific, old-fashioned treat — but not in the case of a 60-year-old woman, who rubbed out her long-time lover by serving him the creamy concoction laced with deadly poison!



PROTEIN shake was laced with a deadly toxin called thallium.

By MICHAEL FORSYTH
Weekly World News

The bizarre murder-by-milk shake was committed by wealthy cosmetics industry consultant Anne Perry.

She admits she spiked her 48-year-old boyfriend Rudy Wolmart's protein shake with a deadly toxin called thallium because he was dumping her for a younger woman.

"I intentionally put thallium into Rudy's malted," Miss Perry, of Bayshore, N.Y., told the court as she pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter. "The thallium I put in his malted caused his death."

And Wolmart, her lover for 23 years, never suspected a thing. Perry, who speaks in a shy, schoolgirl voice, doesn't seem prone to violence. That's why on June 24, 2000, Wolmart thought nothing of slurping down a delicious health shake the jilted woman had prepared.

The doomed meat-company manager had no clue that his vengeful sweetheart had added a "special ingredient" — thallium, a tasteless, odorless chemical used in manufacturing and known to cause vomiting, diarrhea, hair loss, damage to the nervous system, lungs, house, took ill while driving from Bayshore to Queens and was admitted to Flushing Hospital where he lapsed into a coma and died four days later," according to a press release from the Queens District Attorney's Office.

The Hell-has-no-fury-like-a-woman-scorned shocker came to light after doctors examined the hapless victim's remains.

"The autopsy and other scientific tests disclosed that the deceased died of acute and chronic thallium poisoning," says the DA's office.

An investigation led to Ms. Perry, who pleaded guilty on Feb. 25, 2002. Thanks to the plea bargain, the milk shake murderess will serve just 6 years behind bars.

PSYCHIC COMES WITHIN A MILE OF LOST TABBY

A missing tabby cat has been found less than a mile away from where a psychic predicted it would be discovered.

Mai-Mai, 7, disappeared from Ian and Donna Davies' home in Norwich, England, after leaping on the back of a furniture truck and being carried miles away.

After consulting a psychic, Donna was told her beloved Mai-Mai had been adopted by a woman in a nearby village who thought the tabby was a stray.

After papering the town with "Lost Kitty" posters, Mai-Mai's owners were contacted by a woman who lived less than a mile from where the seer predicted the cat would be found.

ICE GIRL'S FIRST DATE

The amazing girl who was frozen in a block of ice as a teenager in 1939 and thawed out by doctors after 63 years has gone on her first date — and her new flame is none other than a firefighter!

Frozen for 63 years, she finds new beau after docs thaw her out

"Things could get hot and heavy between us, but we're keeping it cool until she's ready," says 20-year-old Brad, who was so inflamed to meet ice maiden Margot Swensen that he took a week of personal time from his job at a fire department in a small Michigan town.

He wangled a meeting with Margot after reading her incredible story in the March 12 Weekly World News.

He flew to her home in Stockholm and convinced her doctors to let him spend a day with the beauty, who was born 80 years ago but has the body of a teenager.

Swedish cyrogenicists made medical history when they revived Margot, who fell into an icy pond at age 17. Her family had kept her on ice in the family crypt, thinking she was dead.

But Dr. Olaf Jorgen and his medical team suspected she might still be alive, and were able to thaw her with a painstaking defrosting procedure that took more than a week.

"The frigid temperature had kept her in a state of suspended animation all those years," Dr. Jorgen explained.

Chronologically, Margot is 80 years old — but her body and mind still are only 17, her age when she was first frozen.

"Our main concern is with her mental state," Dr. Jorgen explained. "That's why we allowed this. She needs to begin living a normal life again."

The couple went to an ice show. "We had front row seats and it was a bit chilly, but she seemed right at home," says Brad. "I put my arm around her to keep her warm and that seemed to break the ice."

When they went to a nightclub, Margot's 1939 mentality stuck out like a sore thumb.

"She'd say things like, 'This fellow Hitler seems like a real troublemaker,'" confides Brad.

"And while I like her modest granny dress, which went almost to her ankles, it seemed out of place among all the babes in mini's and belly-showing tank tops.

"As far as dancing, she only wanted to waltz or jitterbug.

"When I tried to booty dance with her, she was so shocked, she acted like she wanted to slap my face." While Margot is definitely an old fashioned girl, she's fascinated with modern gadgets.

"She was flabbergasted over the strobe light and the electronic music," notes Brad.

"And she wouldn't stop fiddling with the radio and CD player in the rental car."

Later, the flame fighter and the Ice Girl snacked on cherry-flavored snow cones before sharing a good-night kiss in the frozen-food aisle of a local supermarket.

"I had fun with Brad," Margot said with a cool smile. "I'd love to see him again."

As for Brad, he said: "I'm trying to be a gentleman here, so all I'm

GONE WITH THE GHOUL

By CLIFF LINEDECKER/Weekly World News

She was a real-life Scarlett O'Hara, a beautiful Southern belle who pined for a man she could not have. And when her lover was killed in battle, she wasted away from a broken heart — then rose from the grave to exact a bloody vengeance.

Before she was through, 20 Union soldiers had perished at the ghastly hands of the vengeful, brokenhearted banshee.

And now, more than a century later, the tragic wraith still haunts the silent hills, valleys and graveyards of her former Fletcher, N.C. home, say locals.

Some insist they have seen her on moonlit nights, riding a phantom steed. She is doomed forever to ride in search of her lost love — and the Yankees who took him from her.

Historians say the headstrong young beauty, whose first name has been lost to history, was the pampered daughter of the Jenkins family, who remained loyal to the Union despite their Southern roots. As she blossomed into womanhood she fell head-over-petticoats in love with a dashing young Confederate officer, Lt. C.A. Walpole.

Her parents were horrified, and forbade the young lovers to see each other. But their passion could not be denied. They managed to sneak off for steamy trysts, at a wishing well in the churchyard near the Jenkins home in western North Carolina. Even after Walpole was ordered to a dangerous posting in Chattanooga, Tenn., she continued to visit their clandestine meeting place where she offered fervent prayers for his safe return.

But the lovesick girl was devastated one day, when she learned her gallant beau had been killed in battle. With tears cascading down her cheeks, she told her parents that she wanted to die. A few days later she was indeed found dead — the heartbroken beauty had literally pined away for her lost love!

Shattered over their loss, her parents buried her in the old church graveyard. Local legend says that the next night, the grieving couple were sitting on their front porch and were startled by the sound of approaching hoofbeats. The clatter continued past the reared to a stop before the trembling couple: a huge palomino stallion with fiery eyes as red as burning coals, carrying a shadowy rider.

It was the angry ghost of their daughter, mounted on her dead lover's horse!

Rising in her saddle, she pointed to her terrified father and in a spine-chilling voice she croaked:

"You killed me, Father — your only child! You will pay with your own life, within the next year! And then I will find the dirty Yankees who murdered my love — if it takes me all of eternity!"

Then she galloped off on her ghostly mount.

And less than a year after the chilling warning, old Mr. Jenkins died!

About that time, a patrol of Yankee The men were lured into a trap and ambushed by Confederates. More than 20 Yankees were shot down.

During the chase, the commander of the ill-fated patrol fired six shots point-blank at the mysterious rider, whom he believed to be a Confederate courier. Other soldiers also fired off numerous rounds at the ghostly figure. But both rider and mount seemed to be impervious to the rain of gunfire.

Horse and rider led the Yankees to the Jenkins family homestead — where the eery pair vanished!

Convinced the farm was a hideout for Confederates, the Yankee officer destruction, another officer was helping himself to a dipper of water from the well when he spotted a lone rider. Aided by light from the burning buildings, he saw that the rider was a woman wearing a Confederate Army cape riddled with bullet holes.

He pulled his pistol and aimed at the rider's head — but the weapon never fired. Then the stunned Union officer watched as horse and rider vanished in a rush of ghostly hoofbeats.

The terrible War Between the States ended a few months later. But according to Fletcher old-timers, the twin phantoms of the vindictive girl and her giant steed

SHOCKING SECRETS OF THE CONFESSION BOOTH

The shameful admissions blurted out in the confession booth are supposed to remain a secret between the sinner, the priest and the Lord.

But some sins are just too juicy to keep to yourself.

Weekly World News obtained thousands of these confessions made over the past 20 years. Then, our panel of religious experts picked the 10 most outrageous — and you'll be shocked at what they are.

I I poisoned my boozing stepfather's favorite hound dog. When he came home stinking drunk that night, demanding dinner, I fed him shepherd's pie — and guess what the meat was.

II I slept with my wife's blind sister, pretending I was her boyfriend.

III I'm a personal trainer, but I get seated immediately at popular restaurants by having my wife roll me in in a wheelchair.

IV Before a championship game, I secretly sprinkled itching powder onto my teammates' jockstraps. Oh yeah, I raked in a bundle on the huge bet I placed on the other team.

V I took my dad's surveillance camera and hid it in the toilet in the girls' rest room at my school. Then, I took the pictures of these two girls I hate in my fourth grade class and sent them, with addresses, to these perverts at an Internet chat room.

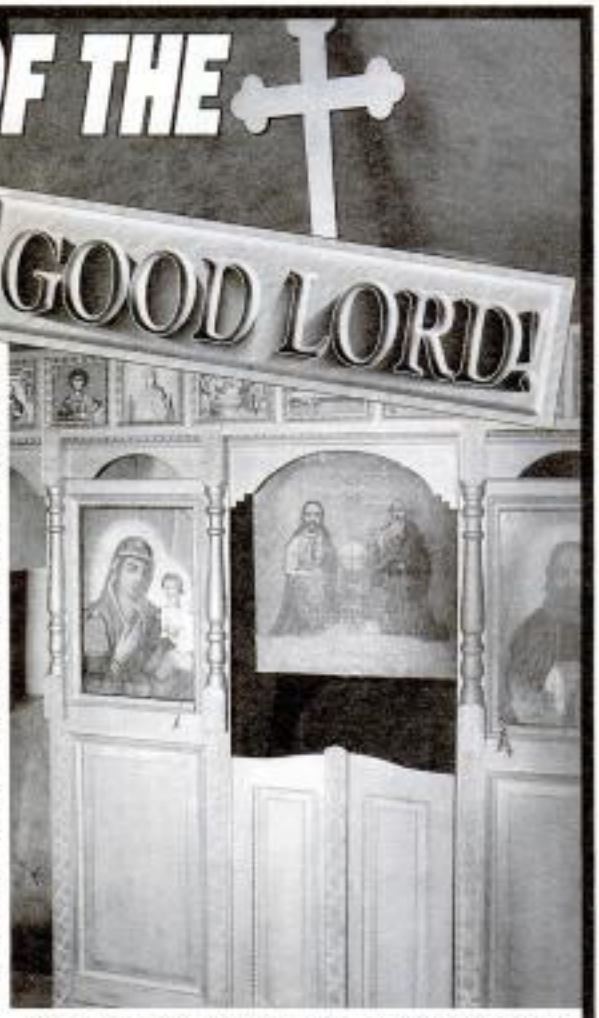
VI I got a great high-paying promotion by cheating. First, I took credit for someone else's excellent work. Then, at a staff meeting, I slipped a whoopee cushion onto my chief rival's chair.

VII After my boss refused to give me a raise, I hired a pregnant teenage hooker to tell his wife that she was carrying his child — and that she has herpes!

VIII I told my employees that our failing company was going great guns, then secretly sold all my stock and split for my private island in the Indian Ocean.

IX I'm a drag queen, who's been living his life as a woman. Two years ago, I fell in love with this handsome new priest at my church. Now, he says he feels the same way, and wants to leave the priesthood so we can marry and start a family.

X When it was time for my witchy mother-in-law to fly home to Cleveland after a Christmas visit, I got her loaded at the airport bar and put her on a plane to Bangkok. Oh yeah, I charged it to her credit card.



Pope beats the devil – three times!

Pope John Paul II has personally fought with Satan at least three times — and won!

The pugnacious pontiff has performed the ancient religious rite of exorcism on three people possessed by Satan, according to one of the Catholic Church's top exorcists. "He carried out these exorcisms because he wanted to give a powerful example," said the Rev. Gabriele Amorth. "He wanted to give the message that we must once again start exorcising those who are possessed by demons."

Amorth said the first case occurred in 1982, early in the pope's term.

"This girl was rolling around anything like it. For us exorcists it is run-of-the-mill."

As demonstrated in the classic horror movie The Exorcist, the ceremony casts demons out of the possessed person with a combination of prayers and religious tools including holy water and the crucifix. It can be a violent and frightening process, often causing the victim to writhe in pain and curse those seeking to cure the demonic possession.

"I have seen levitations," Amorth said, "and a force that needed six or eight men to hold the person still. Such things are the famous movie scene in which actress Linda Blair violently pukes on the exorcist, played by Max von Sydow.

"The devil told a woman that he would make her spit out a transistor radio," Amorth said, "and lo and behold — she started spitting out bits and pieces of a transistor!"

Amorth revealed the papal exorcisms just after the pope warned of satanic possession — indicating that the Holy Father believes the devil is quite real.

In an address from the Vatican, the pontiff issued this ominous warning:

"The devil, 'the prince of this world,' even today continues his insidious actions. Each and every

FAT CAT EX

William Caruthers is still finding cat hair, blood and bits of whiskers and claws lodged in the nooks and crannies of his small kitchen days after the terrifying explosion of his 55-pound cat.

By JUSTIN MITCHELL
Weekly World News

"He got high — then blew sky high! Kaboom! The fur was flying!" exclaims Caruthers, a 43-year-old bachelor who had lived with his feline friend, Albert, in an Essex, England apartment for 10 years.

Albert's catnip cravings ultimately led to his high-flying demise, says Caruthers. "He couldn't stay away from the stuff. I tried to keep it away from him, but he always found a source — sometimes Mrs. Hill in apartment 3 would slip him some on the sly. Albert apparently went on a binge while I was at work and then got the munchies."

Caruthers and veterinary forensic expert Dr. Eric Chapman both theorize that despite his gigantic girth and altered state, Albert was able to somehow waddle to the edge of an open drawer and lever his 55 pounds up to a shelf where a box of Kitty Cookies was stored.

"It was a 5-pound bag," says Caruthers. "I returned from work just in time to see Albert polishing off the last of it. I knew immediately he was stoned. He had that glazed look in his eyes, and was staring mindlessly at my old lava lamp. I started to say, 'Bad kitty!' and then he burped and began gagging like he had a hairball."

The next thing Caruthers knew, Albert began to swell — incredibly to nearly twice his already small pig-like size.

"Then, blooey! He blew up! Right before my eyes. It was like a fur bomb going off — it reminded me of my granddad's tales of the London Blitz!"

The feline firebomb rocked Caruthers' one bedroom flat, sending him flying along with kitty shrapnel that spattered and pock-marked the kitchen walls as well as the living and dining area.

Neighbors heard the explosion and called the police, fearing that a terrorist bomb had torn the apartment to bits.

"I thought it was the IRA or Osama bin Laden's boys," says Janeen Hill, the neighbor whom Caruthers suspects of feeding Albert's habit. "Sure, I'd give him a little nip once in awhile — the poor dear was always so grateful — but not enough to cause this kind of damage, I'm sure."

Dr. Chapman says cases of spontaneous feline explosion are rare, but similar to the bizarre incidents of spontaneous human combustion where men and women have suddenly burst into flames.

"In both cases, we believe there's a sudden build up of a methane-like gas in the victim's intestinal tracts," says Dr. Chapman. "One thing that all victims of spontaneous human combustion have in common is that they are smokers — we believe they light up and the flame triggers the gas explosion that fries them.

"Cats don't smoke, of course. So they simply swell and explode. Catnip and cat treats can be a lethal combination. You should never let felines do catnip and gorge!"

TV's wacky aliens are for CONEHEAD SPAC ON EARTH

By JUSTIN MITCHELL
Weekly World News

THE wacky coneheads from Saturday Night Live are for real!

That's the startling conclusion of major archaeologists following the earthshaking discovery of a 4,500-year-old conehead skull at one of the world's most mysterious sites.

The bizarre area of Nazca, Peru, is also home to the baffling "Nazca lines" — miles of apparent prehistoric "runways" and etchings of enormous animals, birds, spiders and celestial constellations carved into the red dirt plain, which are only visible from the air.

Many scientists believe the Nazca lines are an ancient UFO airstrip where space alien pilots and passengers landed their crafts on Earth thousands of years ago.

Now, some experts believe the conehead skull is proof that gigantic, super-brainy spacemen — who were 8 feet tall — once walked the Earth.

"The discovery of this skull in what can only be called at extraterrestrial airfield means only one thing: the so-called coneheads are no Saturday Night Live joke," says Peruvian archaeologist Dr. Jorge Cabrera. "They were an advanced alien civilization and Nazca was one of their primary centers here on Earth!"

The skull was discovered during an otherwise routine excavation of a pre-Colombian burial site led by Dr. Cabrera.

"We found no body, only the skull amid what appeared to be offerings such as jewelry, pottery and statues," says Dr. Cabrera. "The statues and the drawings on the pottery are another mystery — some resemble dinosaurs — which supposedly did not exist with ancient man — and others depict advanced surgical techniques or look like spaceships with cone-headed figures wearing what appear to be helmets."

The skull, nicknamed "Beldar" after the conehead character played by former SNL star, Dan Aykroyd, also are also enormous and Dr. Cabrera estimated "Beldar's" height as nearly 8-feet tall, based on the measurements of the skull.

DNA tests also revealed no known human genetic pattern or code.

"Obviously, 'Beldar' was extremely large and intelligent — the natives must have worshiped him and his fellow aliens as gods with mass quantities of consumable offerings as well as what we found in the gravesite."

Dr. Cabrera and his colleagues at the Peruvian

DOPE OF THE WEEK

NO ONE would accuse Edward L. Praskovich of choosing the easy way out when he tried to kill himself.

The desperate would-be suicide downed a couple of six-packs, took apart a box cutter and used the razor-sharp blade to try to cut off his genitals!

"He wanted to bleed to death," said Lt. Tony Merante of the Ambridge, Penn., police department.

Praskovich's girlfriend called lawmen early one morning, saying her hunk was complaining of being light-headed after "losing a lot of blood."

Luckily, Prascovich's privates were still intact when he was rushed by helicopter to a hospital in Pittsburgh.

He is reported to be resting there — uncomfortably!

Train passengers get an eyeful

A 23-year-old man was arrested after dozens of horrified passengers on a British commuter train reported seeing him having sex with a goat while the train was stopped at a signal near his home.

He later admitted the dirty deed and added, "I've never done anything like it before."

Man killed walking to friend's funeral

AN 86-year-old man crossing the street to attend his pal's funeral was hit and killed by a driver who didn't see him in his dark clothes. The church deacon who was about to perform a vigil for the dead man was called outside to administer

My America

By ED ANGER

YOUR FIRE DEPARTMENT WANTS YOU!

I'm madder than a firefighter with a leaky hose over what I've heard about volunteer fire departments not getting enough volunteers.

After 9-11 you'd think American men would be knocking down the firehouse doors to volunteer — but it turns out they're more scared of battling blazes than Osama bin Laden is of barbershops! They say they're "too busy" with their families to pitch in.

I bet they're not too busy to wear their "I ♥ FDNY" T-shirts while firing up their $500 designer propane grills and then screaming for a volunteer fire department to save their designer-jeans butts and their half-million dollar homes when the burgers turn into a four-alarm blaze!

Besides the thrill of putting out a couple of yuppie barbecue and leaf fires every year, volunteer firefighting builds character.

I should know. As acting assistant deputy chief for my rural fire department I've had the pleasure of whipping wimps into real men with activities like using the beer we don't drink to put out the practice fires we set. We also tie new guys up in hoses and see how long it takes for them to get out, and we have great races on

Thelma Jean waiting for a smoke alarm to buzz when she burns the pork chops — and it's a lot less messy than trying to scrape all the fire repellent off the ceiling, stove and walls after I do my sworn duty with the extinguisher.

What real man doesn't love the smell of smoke, sweat and cinders? Plenty of pinko pansies volunteer to go cut sugar cane in Cuba or teach Chinese kids how to read English so the kids can use it to read our top secret military manuals, but they can't be bothered to lift a hose to help their hometown!

I say if they won't volunteer, we start a national firefighting draft!

Every American male between the ages of 18 and 50 has to haul hose, get smoke in their eyes and ash in their lungs for two years or else have to put signs on their house and car doors that say: "This man would rather wear a dress than a fire helmet!"

Now that's an idea that really lights my fire!

Fire volunteers' new rallying cry: Include me out!

By DAN KADISON

Suburban fire departments are being dressed with a grim reality — the wanes of Sept. 11 and its death toll have hurt the recruitment of future volunteers.

Departments had expected an upswing in volunteerism in the New York area after the World Trade Center attack, but "the spike just hasn't happened," said Heather Schaffer, executive director for the National Volunteer Fire Council.

In Connecticut, New Jersey and Long Island, smoke-eating supervisors are scratching their heads — surprised that new recruits haven't swamped stationhouses.

"I expected it would create a percent of all firefighters are circa-retired volunteers.

In Long Island, there was a 4 to 5 percent increase in new recruits for the first two months after the trade-center attack, but the zeal to knock down blazes and be a line of defense against terrorism "has died off," said Walter Mineo, fire chief of the Freeport Fire Department.

"They realize the intensity of the job," Mineo said, adding, "It's a dangerous position, but it's a very rewarding position as well."

While Sept. 11 proved that firefighters are heroes, many think the images of the falling Twin Towers are scaring pot-

OVER-THE-BIG-TOP UNDERTAKER PUTS FUN INTO FUNERALS

WISECRACKING CLOWN USHERS greet mourners at the McTavish Funeral Home.

Wacky props include
- Day-Glo embalming fluid
- Palm buzzers
- Whoopee cushions
- Squirting flowers
- Kazoo music and a . . .
- Ventriloquist to make the dead talk

Wisecracking undertakers are "Putting the FUN in funerals!"

That's the motto and the mission of the 17 McTavish mortuaries based in Glasgow, Scotland, where director Sean McTavish has put some life and laughter into the otherwise grave death business.

At a typical "McFUNeral" mourners find themselves laughing — not crying — tears as clown-suited ushers offer a hand in condolence — only to get the joyful jolt of a palm buzzer followed by a squirt of water from the "flower" pinned to an over-sized bright yellow lapel.

Day-Glo embalming fluid highlights the deceased's body and — thanks to a ventriloquist - he or she appears to greet mourners with one-liners such as "Look what happens when you get scared half to death twice!" and "Oh my God, look who's here! I must be in Hell!"

"I always thought funerals were such morbid affairs — so I decided to put a little life and laughs into them," says McTavish, who was a stand-up comic before inheriting the funeral homes from his late father.

"At first, people were a little startled, but word has spread and we can't book enough of them."

McTavish's mirthful mortuary services include a variety of options ranging from the basic "I Get No Respect" service, featuring a five-minute videotaped all-purpose eulogy by comedian Rodney Dangerfield and whoopee cushions in the seats, to the wildly popular "3 Ring Circus Sendoff" featuring the clown ushers, a live comedian, door prizes such as a case of embalming fluid or 10 percent off on your next funeral and a hearse from which 25 clowns spill out at graveside.

Other popular options include a kazoo rendition of "Amazing Grace" or "Nearer My God to Thee" and dribble cups and plastic doggie-do and vomit among the refreshments at the wake.

There is also the

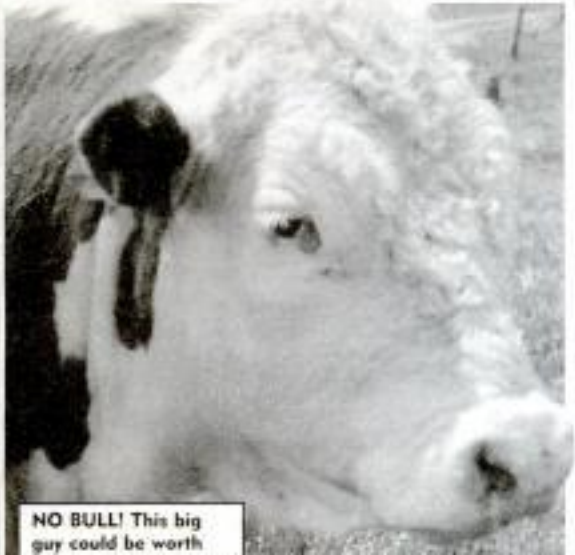
Brits smell bull in foot-and-mouth bills



NO BULL! This big guy could be worth

The British government wonders if someone's handing them some bull over the outrageous prices being paid out to owners of animals that were slaughtered during the country's foot-and-mouth plague.

Two farmers are slated to get paid almost $350,000 for their prize bull that was killed last year to help stop the spread of the deadly disease.

And the owner of a Bambi look-alike deer is set to cash a $71,500 check because his animal had appeared on TV and in movies.

Owners of the high-priced bull say the costly critter was a valuable breeding stud in the prime of its career and worth every penny they get back from the government.

Its sperm had been used to father 2,000 calves, many of which grew to be highly productive milk cows.

Now, officials are holding up payments while they investigate the values of the critters.

Dear Dotti

AMERICA'S MOST OUTSPOKEN ADVICE COLUMNIST

Wacko roomie saves her dead birds — in our freezer

Dear Dotti: My roommate is a total bird nut. In our apartment, she has birdcages with parrots, macaws, canaries and other birds. She reads bird books. She loves to go bird watching. She even sleeps with bird stuffed animals and has a bird bedspread.

I'm O.K. with it, but there is one problem. During December 2000 four of her birds died and she wrapped them up and put them in our freezer. It's a bird morgue. She promised to bury them in the spring. That was more than a year ago and they're still sharing space with the ice cream and frozen pizza boxes. How can I talk her into giving them a timely burial? — Creeped Out in Minneapolis

Dear Creeped Out: Thaw them, pluck them, roast them and then serve them to her with a wild rice side dish. Then find yourself a new roommate.

On-line lover will hate me if we meet in person

Dear Dotti: I feel like no one will ever love me because I'm just so ugly. I've spent a lot of time on the internet because I can't meet men face-to-face. There's a guy I met in a chat room and we've been spending tons of time on-line together. We've even had cybersex. My on-line lover has been hinting at getting together, but we've never actually

What can I do to be beautiful? — Ugly Duckling in Des Moines

Dear Ugly Duckling: Put a bag over your head when you meet him. It can double as a barf bag for him when you pull it off.

Pack rat pal will perish under her piles of junk

Dear Dotti: I have a friend who collects everything. She has hundreds of salt shakers, figurines, dolls, commemorative plates, even doilies from around the world. It's hard to walk through her house without tripping over the latest Princess Di doll or Elvis plate. Her family and I are starting to get worried that one of the stacks of commemorative crap will fall over and crush her. — Fretting Friend in Bethel

Dear Fretting: I'd say that your friend has no life, but you definitely need to get one. It's none of your beeswax, toots. If you and she are lucky, her stacks of junk will collapse and crush her like a bug so you can stop worrying!

Woman to woman, Dotti — we are soul mates

Dear Dotti: I have a crush on you and have had one for a long time. I'd like to meet you and I know if we do it could be love at first sight. The only problem might be is that I am a woman. How do you feel about that? — Your Soul Mate in Salt Lake City

Dear Soul Mate: How do I feel? "Grossed out" doesn't begin to say it. How about revolted, nauseous, and wishing I'd never opened this skanky smelling letter! Your taste in perfume makes cat litter smell sweet. You'll be getting a copy of a restraining order, pronto!

CONFIDENTIALS

Sorry in Rhode Island: You're right, you are sorry! Don't do the crime if you can't do the time, buster!

Road Rage in Redstone: Next time keep your hands on the wheel and leave the fast lane to pros like me!

Fast Buck Freddy in Mesa: No, I don't think that high-yield bonds are my key to financial success. I work for a living, thank you very much!

Too Curious George in Washington: That's what you get for not having a life. You need way more help than I can give you!

Lucy in the Sky in Tampa: What are you some kind of freak! The Mile High club went out of style with "coffee, tea or me?"

Cowboy Crazy in Cheyenne: If you want to fool around with sweaty goat ropers who don't take their hats and boots off in bed, fine! That leaves more classy guys for real women like me!

Am I Cursed in Boston: Yes you are. It's just like herpes. You caught it, now live with it, bucko!

Watching and Waiting in Charlotte: Pull up a chair, settle in and wait for the flying pigs from a frozen Hell to give you the news the next time the sun rises in the west!

Daughter's friend is 14 & looks like a hooker

Dear Dotti: My daughter's best friend hit puberty early. She looks — and dresses — like she's a 21-year-old hooker, but she's only 14. She's started dating a 32-year-old guy she met at the mall. I think everyone in town knows about this except her parents. I don't want to say anything to them and be accused of sticking my nose where it doesn't belong. What can I say to convince her to break it off with this young man before she gets hurt — or worse? — Cares a Lot in Carson City

Dear Cares: Call the cops, pinhead. Why are you bothering to write me when you've got a child molester on the loose? I hate sickos like him and I hate spineless ninnies like you even more.

Co-worker's a slacker who won't do her job

Dear Dotti: I have a co-worker who works no more than four hours in an eight-hour workday. She wastes time at lunch, shopping, with personal phone calls, and gossiping with other workers. I have to take up the slack. She has been here for three years and I just don't see why she hasn't been canned. — Worker Bee in Fresno

Dear Worker Bee: You're obviously a sucker who enjoys being taken advantage of so there isn't a darn thing I can do to help you! Your co-worker sounds like she has it made! I wish I could get paid to go shopping instead of putting up with wishy-washy cabbage heads and their petty problems.

I want to sue my mom for child abuse

Dear Dotti: I am 15. My mother is always on my case about everything I do. She won't stop bugging me about boys calling, housecleaning and other stupid stuff. She is so, like, "forget about it and clean your room," and won't even let me stay out after 10 on weekends and says I have to get a job if I want to buy a car when I get my driver's license. Can I sue her for child abuse? — Tina in Grand Rapids

Dear Tina: No. But you can nominate her for Mother of the Year, you spoiled brat! I'm forwarding a copy of your letter to your mom and telling her to cut your curfew to 8 p.m. Now go clean up

WORLD'S BIGGEST WITH

By MIKE FOSTER/Weekly World News

The world's biggest baby, 163-pound Ilya Andreev, has been arrested and charged with first-degree murder after crushing to death a girl tot — and a cuddly pet bunny — during a day-care center squabble!

Colossal 18-month-old Ilya burst into tears as he was frisked, handcuffed and whisked off to police headquarters by hard-nosed cops in Ploiestad, Bulgaria.

The gigantic tyke is the youngest child ever charged with homicide in Europe and furious child-welfare crusaders say they are "deeply disturbed" by his treatment — and the judge has vowed to try him as an adult.

"To take a child who's still in his diapers and haul him off to jail like a Mafia hit man is cruel and stupid beyond belief," blasts Marie Cheraut, director of the Paris-based International Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. "Then to go ahead and charge him as an adult adds insult to injury.

"This is the most outrageous case of poor judgment on the part of police officials and prosecutors I've ever heard of."

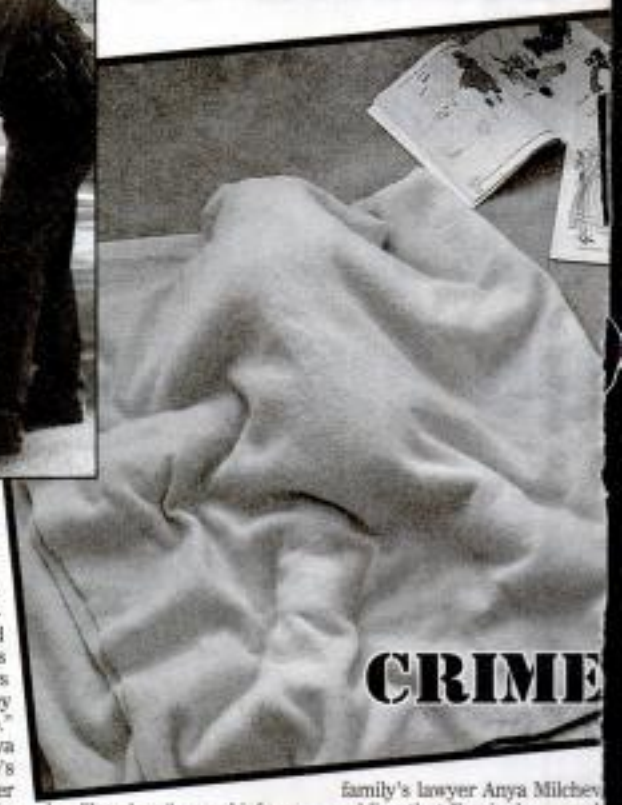
Ilya's distraught mom Nadia, 28, insists that the titanic tot is being railroaded.

"Ilya and the little girl, Stefani, were fighting over whose turn it was to pet the day-care center's new rabbit, Sasha," she explains. "Somehow my son lost his balance and fell on the girl. It was a tragic accident."

But the grieving parents of 2-year-old crushing victim Stefani Vuchkova, who was a mere 2 foot 6 and 31 pounds, see things very differently.

"That big, fat, monstrous freak needs to be locked up behind bars where he can never hurt another child," says Stefani's bitter dad, George. "Because of him, our precious princess is gone forever.

"I'll never forget the sight of her little body lying there, flattened like a pancake. This horrible tragedy is every parent's worst nightmare."



in arms because "incredible bulk" Ilya also smashed bunny Sasha — 3½ pounds and 16 inches long — to a bloody pulp during the fracas.

Until the tragic mishap, Ilya was a local hero, whose staggering bulk had made him a nationally known celebrity, featured on TV and in magazines. Born weighing a whopping 36 pounds, he brought fame and tourist dollars to Ploiestad, a mountain village so tiny it's not even on many maps.

"People would come from miles away to see Ilya and be photographed with him," his mom recalls. "They always wanted to watch him eat — and that was easy since at six-months he was already guzzling eight gallons of baby formula a day.

"Everyone loved Ilya because he was so good-natured and jolly. Visitors loved to pinch his chubby cheeks and burly body-builders would show how strong they were by trying to pick him up."

But investigators say Ilya also had a dark side. He's been known to throw temper tantrums, especially when favorite snacks are taken away, cops claim.

Prosecutors say that the 5-foot-5 juvenile delinquent's ugly side surfaced at the Daskalov Day Care Center on that fateful February 19 — with tragic results.

"Witnesses tell us that when Stefani wouldn't let Ilya pet the rabbit, Ilya went berserk. He belly-flopped on the small girl in what seemed to be an imitation of a pro her like a bug," says chief prosecutor Kosta Vladkov. "Sadly, the rabbit was also squashed."

Prosecutors reveal that Ilya, who has four teeth, also bit the victim during the fracas — and that, apparently, is what has sealed the enormous toddler's fate.

"The deliberate biting clearly points to criminal intent," says Vladkov. "Because of that, our hands our tied — we have no choice but to charge him as an adult."

While Bulgaria has no death penalty, if convicted Ilya could be sentenced to life be-

Judge puts cuffs on divorcing couple!

Talk about cruel and unusual punishment. A no-nonsense judge in Muskegon, Mich., ordered an estranged couple to be handcuffed together during a divorce hearing!

Judge Gregory Pittman took the unorthodox step after concluding that Sabrena and Kirk Smith's stories blatantly contradicted each other.

The fed-up jurist ordered that the bickering duo be cuffed together and shackled to a holding cell bench "until somebody decides that they're going to not lie to the court."

The Solomon-like trick worked like a charm — within an hour, the wife broke down.

Sabrena, who had maintained that her estranged hubby had violated an order of protection, dropped the complaint. The pair were sprung from jail — and from each other.

She later said that while cuffed together, the former lovebirds exchanged angry words. Luckily, no punches were thrown.

Researchers think space aliens arriving in New Jersey

A research team hopes to prove that the doorway to a parallel dimension is in New Jersey.

A British TV producer says he'll bring a camera crew to a spot in northern New Jersey, which he says leads to another dimension.

He hopes to photograph an alien coming through the vortex. And members of the crew may try to enter it themselves.

Producer Ross Hemsworth says the New Jersey door may be the most active of at least 12 dimensional vortexes believed to exist around the world.

RENT-A-SHEEP BIZ BOOMING

A German businessman has launched a rent-a-sheep service for city slickers eager for a taste of the country.

Sheep owner Martin Portmann, 52, of Berlin, says his animals have already appeared at several children's birthday parties.

Serena Sabak

AMERICA'S SEXIEST PSYCHIC

Let Serena help you! Write: Serena, Weekly World News, 5401 NW Broken Sound Blvd., Boca Raton, Fla. 33487. We'll forward your letters to her. Don't send money. Serena's advice is free.

Crazy sister wants to invest in frogs' legs

Dear Serena: My sister wants me to go into business with her raising frogs because she's convinced that there will be a fried frog legs craze in the U.S. within a few years and she wants to get in on the ground floor.

She keeps saying it's going to be like the coffee shop craze or sushi! I think she's crazy but my refusal to invest in this is hurting our relationship. What do you think? — Common Sense Sister in Weston

Dear Common Sense: I see a flourishing business relationship with your sister, but not with frog legs. You're right to feel skeptical about that one. But my crystal ball says once she's found no takers, you two will found a mutually beneficial business related to health care! My ball also tells me that it will grow by leaps and bounds if you take care of the numbers and let your sister's enthusiasm infuse the advertising and marketing departments.

Dear Serena: My mother-in-law is coming for one of her month-long visits and I am absolutely dreading it! I try to get along with her, but she always compares me to my husband's first wife and she is so negative. Her comparisons hurt a lot — and I've decided she's just plain evil! I've tried to be patient and talk with my husband about it, but he just shrugs and changes the subject. — Sick of Her in Kensington

Dear Sick of Her: I have cast a relationship-healing spell over your mother-in-law and you. Her negative energy is annoying, but she is also paying the price for a previous life where she swindled trusting men out of their savings and then disappeared. She "feels" you are doing the same to her son, but is off-base. All of this will change by the time she arrives! Fuss over her a bit so she feels more appreciated and with a little psychic help from me, you'll see a huge change! My blessings to you both.

Dear Serena: Nearly 24 years ago my husband literally disappeared. All the police found was his car running with the keys locked inside it at the airport. Despite years of searching and false leads there has been no trace of him — until maybe now! A friend in Montreal swears she saw a man who looked and walked and gestured just like he did. She followed him to his condo to see where he lives but is afraid to confront him. Could it be him? — Still Hoping

Dear Still Hoping: My spirit angels showed me who you are talking about. It is not your husband — but it is the twin brother he never knew about! My spirits say they were adopted at birth and raised separately — your husband in the U.S. and his twin in Canada. Unfortunately, your husband did pass away — there were gambling problems that he kept from you. But his twin is single and looking. I see that a trip to Montreal along with a "chance encounter" at his favorite coffee shop would do you both a world of good!

Dear Serena: I hope you can help. You're my last hope. My pet spider monkey has been missing for three months! We live in Florida, so I'm not worried about the weather affecting him, but Bosco has been a part of our family for nearly 10 years. He apparently let himself out of his cage, and despite posters and news articles, we have had no idea where he might be. — Missing Our Monkey

Dear Missing: I see in my crystal ball that Bosco is not far from you at all! There is a petting zoo near a shopping center about eight miles north of your home and he has been part of that menagerie since he left. He misses his old home, though. You need to go claim him — make sure you bring those photos from his last "birthday party" you had for him as well as the newspaper article. The petting zoo owner would love to keep Bosco and will demand proof.

PERSONAL TO:

Lonely in Brooklyn: Get a babysitter for the cats and accept a date with that man you met at the club. My angels say you're on to a good thing. And your cats will agree!

Josie in Wales: Ignore the "experts." It's going to be a girl! And I'm flattered you want to name her Serena! Thank you!

Motor City Mama: I see some incredible luck coming your way — especially if you get a "tune-up" and a pedicure.

THIS WEEK'S SIX LUCKIEST LOTTO NUMBERS

Weekly World News has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Swiss-built computer, called Bright Green, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established tendencies. The numbers are good for the week Weekly World News is on the newsstand.

The computer scans all numbers selected in lotteries across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the luckiest numbers for each week. By sticking with [illegible]

What's your secret message from the Fortune Cookie this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box at left, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your letters

Weekly World News exclusive: The WORLD'S BIGGEST CROSSWORD!

CATFIGHT AT BE

Contestants go ape

By KATE McCLARE/Weekly World News

A brawl broke out at a beauty pageant, after one of the contestants raised eyebrows with onstage antics involving a stuffed pig.

The catfight exploded between an official of Georgetown College, a Kentucky Christian school that has run the annual Belle of the Blue pageant for almost half a century, and a contestant who'd been voted Miss Congeniality.

It ended in an assault charge against the college official — Kathy Wallace, Georgetown's director of student activities — and sent contestant Keaton Lynch Brown to the hospital.

Brown was one of 14 hopeful beauty queens competing for the title and a $1,000 scholarship. The winner will advance to the Mountain Laurel Festival in Pineville, Ky., in May.

Similar to Miss America and other crowns, the Belle of the Blue title is based on several factors — the contestants' grades, their answers to judges' questions, their "poise" while wearing evening gowns and their performance in a talent presentation.

It was the talent contest that led to the fracas between Brown and Wallace.

A pageant insider said trouble had been brewing all week between them. Wallace was miffed at Brown's "unladylike" talent presentation — a rodeo performance that ended with her roping a stuffed pig.

Brown told local cops that when she finished the act at a rehearsal, Wallace yanked her offstage by the arm and dragged her down some steps, causing Brown to slam into a door.

Sources said Brown sought medical attention at a hospital three days later, while Wallace was arrested and is awaiting trial after posting bail.

Ironically, actress Sandra Bullock was also a brawling Miss Congeniality in the movie of that name. Bullock played a tough-as-nails FBI agent who goes undercover as a beauty contestant — and battles with an even tougher pageant director, played by Candace Bergen.

DESIGNERS MAKE SILK PURSES OUT OF SOWS' EARS!

They say you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear — but that's exactly what clever French designers have done!

The new purses are made from a form of specially processed suede, called "swilk," that's indistinguishable from silk.

Hoity-toity European fashion models and socialites are going hog-wild for the porky purses —

SIDENT CLINTON TO HEAD ALL-GIRL SCHOOL

He did a great job raising Chelsea & now he could help the Bush girls!

By VICKIE YORK/Weekly World News

A prestigious school for rich, wayward girls has selected a new headmaster, and he's the ideal man for the job — former President Bill Clinton!

The board of directors of the 75-year-old Stoneford Academy for Girls says it's prepared to offer the ex-President a whopping $5 million a year to ride herd over Stoneford's super-spoiled bad girls.

"We considered hundreds of candidates before settling on Mr. Clinton and we believe he'll fit this position like a glove," said Lara Sunderham, chairwoman of the board of the swank school, which sits on 32 sun-drenched acres on the Seychelle Islands in the Indian Ocean.

"This is a respected former world leader," she said, "who brought Britain to the bargaining table with the IRA and has dealt with regimes ranging from North Korea to Iraq.

"If anyone can handle our brats and stay on top of things at Stoneford, it's him."

The exclusive academy, which boasts riding stables, a golf course and two private beaches, caters to the ultra-neglected daughters of the super-wealthy — from the daughters of Arab sheiks to the pampered offspring of Texas oil men. One source said President and Mrs. Bush should consider sending their hard-partying bad-girl daughters Jenna and Barbara to the ritzy reform school as a last resort.

CAN THE BUSH GIRLS

THE BOARD was especially impressed with the great job Clinton did in raising his daughter Chelsea in pressure-cooker Washington, D.C.

Stoneford Academy would also be a perfect place for Bush's niece Noelle, who is the daughter of Florida Gov. Jeb Bush and was recently busted on a prescription drug charge.

Insiders warn that if Bill takes the job, he'll have his work cut out for him.

"Our 1,200 students, who range from 14 to 19 years old, are used to having their way — they're some of the biggest brats in the world," confided a the maids who wait on them hand and foot at home. They cuss, smoke like chimneys and brew homemade liquor in their rooms.

"The last headmaster, a distinguished former lecturer from Cambridge, quit in frustration after a group of the girls literally tarred and feathered him — twice."

But the school is confident that ex-President Clinton is up to the task.

"If he can bring a tyrant like Yugoslavian dictator Slobodan Milosevic to his knees, taking on our young ladies will be a piece of cake," said Mrs. Sunderham.

The selection committee was not put off by the former commander in chief's skirt-chasing reputation or the Monica Lewinsky "Sexgate" scandal.

"It's well known that Mr. Clinton never had actual sexual relations with that woman," notes the chairwoman. "If anything, the fact that he's so intimately acquainted with the bad-girl type — that he can get inside their heads — is a plus."

One school board member suggested that Monica fill the vice principal post.

The board was especially impressed with the great job Clinton did in raising his daughter Chelsea in the pressure-cooker Washington environment.

"She turned out to be a polite, articulate young lady who's gone on to Stanford and Oxford," notes Mrs. Sunderham. "We know he'll do as well with our girls."

Now, the officials and parents of Stanhope Academy are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping Wild Bill will accept their offer.

"Mr. Clinton's goal is to be of service," said Mrs. Sunderham. "This would be a perfect opportunity for him

AMAZING FASTING GIRL DIDN'T EAT FOR 10 YEARS

Researchers remain baffled by the bizarre case of Mollie Fancher — tagged "the girl who lives on air" — after she survived without eating or drinking anything for more than a decade!

Foodless fem also had incredible psychic powers!

And incredibly, the young Brooklyn, N.Y., woman's prolonged fast gave her amazing psychic powers, including the ability to travel outside her body and accurately report what she saw — even though she was blind as a bat.

By TOM ATKINSON
Weekly World News

The astonishing story is recounted in the upcoming book, The Fasting Girl (Penguin Putnam), by Michelle Stacey.

UPCOMING book recounts Mollie's amazing life.

The strange saga began in June 1865 when Mollie, then just 18, was accidentally flung from a horse-drawn carriage and dragged for a block.

The accident left her unable to walk. Her eyesight failed and her lungs began to hemorrhage. She experienced horrible spasms, her limbs twisted into knots and she began to fall into strange trances. In February 1866, a team of four doctors declared Mollie to be dying — yet she lingered on.

Mollie's throat closed tight and the only food and drink she had between April 4 and Oct. 27, 1866, were "four teaspoonfuls of milk punch, two of wine, one small piece of banana and a small piece of cracker," according to a diary kept by her aunt Susan Crosby.

After that, Mollie ate or drank nothing at all for at an international sensation, heralded in newspapers as the "girl who lives on air alone."

Doctors argued over her ailment — and the cure. She was given torturous treatments, including electric shock therapy and ice jackets. Some doctors, feeling that nutrition could be absorbed by the skin, ordered her to be put in sitz-baths of beef tea. She was given enemas of beef tea, brandy and milk punch.

During Mollie's period of blindness, she shocked friends and visitors by accurately describing actions she had witnessed in out-of-body experiences. What's more, she could pass her hands over letters and tell what they said.

Some experts were convinced miracle girl Mollie was a fraud, but doctors who examined her disagreed.

"It seems incredible, but from everything I can learn Mollie Fancher never eats," declared her family physician, Dr. Robert Ormiston.

Prof. Charles E. West, a noted physicist, said of Mollie: "I have subjected her to severe tests but I have never been able to see the faintest traces of deception."

Prof. Joseph Rhodes Buchanan, a physiologist and anthropologist, theorized that the key to Mollie's survival for so long without food Mollie's soul was freed from the animal nature of her body, she no longer needed ordinary sustenance.

About nine years after the accident, Mollie went into a month-long coma.

"When she came out of it, her right arm relaxed from its rigid state, her hands opened, her limbs untwisted — and in her mind it was still June 1865," writes author Stacey. She had lost all memory of her bizarre illness.

This episode may have triggered the end of Mollie's fast. Although the exact date is unclear, within a couple of years she was eating again and began to visibly fatten up. In her later years, Mollie was no longer blind and rarely clairvoyant.

The girl who lived on thin air passed away at age 69 on Feb. 10, 1916.

TAP DANCING TURNS MURDERERS INTO MINSTRELS

LEGENDARY TAP DANCER Bill "Bojangles" Robinson.

By JEFFREY L. GURIAN
Weekly World News

European doctors and criminal justice experts are jumping for joy over a revolutionary new therapy for treating psycho criminals — tap dancing!

Doctors at the Cordes Home For The Criminally Insane, in Cordes, France, stumbled on the treatment nearly a year ago when inmates were viewing an old Shirley Temple movie featuring legendary tap dancer Bill "Bojangles" Robinson.

"They were mesmerized," said chief clinical physician Dr. Abraham Vyune. "They'd never seen — or heard — anything like it! Serial killers, a cannibal, child molesters and rapists were all brought to their feet and out of their medicated, drugged stupors by the hypnotic rhythms and clicking and clacking of a long-dead dancer!"

Dr. Vyune and his staff soon brought in dancing instructors and bought tap shoes for their once-bloodthirsty patients. Within a week, the pitter-patter of metal taps on linoleum could be heard ringing nonstop throughout the grim, fortress-like hospital — home to some of Europe's most hardened and violent offenders.

The staff also located more videos of American tap dancers — some rare footage of Southern minstrel shows with white performers dancing in blackface — and movies of the legendary Al Jolson.

"They were inspired further," said Dr. Vyune, "and began smearing shoe polish on their faces to imitate what they'd seen. We gave them harmless plastic canes and they began creating their own routines to old American tunes like 'Dixie,' 'Swanee,' 'Turkey in the Straw,' 'Ole Dan Tucker' huge, huge favorite with these fellows!"

Roland Bife loves the tap therapy. The 28-year-old, 6-foot-5, 286-pound brute is serving a life sentence for murdering and eating at least 21 victims over a period of five years. But the man known as "The Butcher of Bastione" said he's never been more content than as a light-footed dancer and member of the Just Like Jolson All-Star Offenders Jamboree.

"I'm happy for the first time in my life," said Bife, who has been nicknamed Twinkletoes by the other inmates. "Happier than after a four-course meat cleaver meal featuring tender, lightly sautéed and breaded 22-year-old female thigh."

Some younger offenders have also incorporated break-dance moves with the traditional tap dancing, creating a happy fusion of styles and flying feet.

Dr. Vyune said the rate of violent behavior among his patients declined in almost direct proportion to their tap dancing.

"I'm not sure why," he said. "The rhythms and 'happy feet' and sounds of banjos seem to alter the electrical charges in their brains, producing a euphoria that feel. It just seems to be good for the soul. The powerful connection of their feet hitting the floor so rapidly also seems to ground them in reality."

Adds cannibal-killer Bife, "If only I hadn't eaten my parents, I think I could have been the French Monsieur Bojangles."

AL JOLSON'S black-faced rendition of "Mammy" was a smash hit with the murderous scum.

NEW MIRACLE PILL BURNS OFF MIDDLE-AGE SPREAD

Doctors now have a drug that burns off the flab politely known as "middle-age spread."

Fat men lost up to a pound of fat after being injected with one dose in early tests. Researchers will soon begin tests on a pill version, which could be available within four years.

The drug works by helping the body break down fat more quickly. It has been most effective with men over age 35 who have put on weight around their stomachs.

But it could be a valuable weapon for all people fighting flab, said Prof. Frank Ng, an Australian expert in obesity who started human tests of the drug after success with lab rats.

New Contest: Where's Osama?

The U.S. Army is looking for him. The FBI is looking for him. The CIA is looking for him. Batboy's looking for him.

Terrorist creep Osama Bin Laden is the world's most wanted man, but so far, he's managed to elude capture by vanishing into thin air. Now, Weekly World News readers can have the chance to serve their country by finding the cowardly killer behind the September 11 attacks.

And to help sharpen your eyes so you can easily identify the terrorist, we're holding a 'Where's Osama?' contest each week. Just locate the turban-headed wimp in the crowd shot above, circle it and send it to: 'Where's Osama?,' c/o Weekly World News, 5401 NW Broken Sound Blvd., Boca Raton, Fla. 33487.

Entries must be received by April 2, 2002. We'll draw one lucky winner from the correct entries on April 3, 2002. He or she will receive $10 and the nation's gratitude. Remember to include your name, address and a daytime telephone number.

The winner's name will appear in Issue 19 of Weekly World News. No purchase necessary. Open to all U.S. residents 18 and older. Odds of winning depend on number of entries received. Void where prohibited by law. All entries become the property of Weekly World News.

Angry dad's shocking plea . . .

By KATE McCLURE/Weekly World News

Kill my kid — please!

LOVING dad Roger Aston is raging mad after his boy Andrew got life for murdering two old men — he wants his son hanged instead!

"If I had my way, he would hang for all the hurt and harm he has done to these old people and their families," a weeping Roger said.

Vicious Andrew was given 26 life sentences for bludgeoning two elderly men to death and savagely beating 24 others. Police in Birmingham, England, think he may have attacked as many as 40 old people.

Cops said Andrew tricked his way into the retirees' homes by posing as a policeman. He would then rob them to feed his crack cocaine habit, beating them bloody if he felt it necessary.

He ended up killing World War II veterans George Dale, 86, and Frank Hobley, 80.

Mr. Dale was paralyzed for two agonizing weeks after Andrew hit him with a tire iron.

It took Mr. Hobley three months to die.

Police said Andrew's attacks were part of a three-month rampage that ended when he was caught trying to rob a 92-year-old man.

Said his father, "I apologize to everybody for what he did."

ALTHOUGH gallows haven't been used in this country in almost 40 years, Roger Aston thinks his murderous son should hang for his crimes!

FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 25

GIANT Horoscope

BY SERENA SABAK Psychic Astrologer to the Rich & Famous

ARIES
Mar. 21 – Apr. 19

Your luck will improve significantly this week. Chances for success are good so take advantage of them.

Your selfish side might emerge in the very near future, creating conflicts.

Be aware of the potential problems and try to see things from the other guy's point of view.

Tackling a delayed domestic chore will bring you unexpected luck!

TAURUS
Apr. 20 – May 20

It appears that any efforts at diet and exercise will pay off handsomely this week. Forget past failures.

The results will surprise you. Helping a friend is going to pay off.

Be a good listener and keep advice to a minimum. Trust your instincts.

Wearing green or a flash of gold enhances your chances at good fortune. Number 4 is a lucky number.

GEMINI
May 21 – June 20

Success in an undertaking of significant impact will surprise and silence detractors and delight those who stand to profit from your judgment and guidance.

Keep an eye on your health and wallet in the days ahead.

An early morning phone call can lead to a significant upswing in your career.

The numbers 33 and 6 figure significantly in your future.

CANCER
June 21 – July 22

This week you can hold the key to success if you use your natural talents and strive to achieve goals you consider beyond reach.

By trusting your inner voice and heeding body language, you'll be able to reach down deep inside your being and shape events to your liking.

Money problems can disappear and the color red could be a key!

LEO
July 23 – Aug. 22

Your indecisiveness may cause you to ease up before a project is completed. Use your willpower to keep sweating it out until it's over.

Give yourself a night off and celebrate all that hard work.

You're particularly attractive to the opposite sex this week. If you're single, explore new relationships. Marrieds and steadies should rekindle their romance.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

Your ability to see through the muddle comes in handy when you solve a problem puzzling to others.

Romance and surprise will be significant this week. Perhaps someone you only thought of as a friend will become more important in your life. Or the love you feel for someone suddenly burns hotter.

Your lucky color is white and your lucky number this week is 52.

Readers all over the country are using psychic astrologer Serena Sabak's Lucky Lottery Numbers to help them win big bucks, and so can you! To find your Lucky Numbers, simply look them up under your birth sign in the chart below. If you need seven numbers for the lottery in your area, add your birthday. If you need fewer numbers, drop the numbers listed last.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

Your temper will be tested this week — and if you lose it you may be paying the price for a long time.

Concentrate on winning battles and not getting even. Be smart, not tough.

Your best work will be done at home this week.

Stick to basics and if you get something special in the mail, don't be surprised. A financial upturn is waiting in the wings!

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

This should be a super week. Projects could fall into place with little or no effort, and associates may seem more eager to please.

Good news about your health or the health of someone close to you is strongly possible. If you're feeling lucky, look to the color lavender and the number 20.

Take a break from your labors and celebrate at week's end. You deserve it.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

You sometimes feel pressured because of the amount of projects you take on, but don't be too busy this week to help out a lonely pal.

A romantic evening with a special person can bring feelings of warmth and love. Be open to all the possibilities.

Don't make a mistake by ignoring the invitation of a stranger to join in a project. It will lead to a fortunate crossroads!

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

Your cool judgment may be called upon when a family member or close friend comes to you with a problem this week. They'll be happy and relieved as you show them how to solve it with a minimum of fuss.

Someone you've been ignoring will become a true ally. Listen to him or her.

A phone call or e-mail brings incredible news. Your lucky number is 9.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

Don't be drawn into other people's problems this week. Guard against giving advice that may backfire.

There is a strong possibility of a positive change in your lifestyle this week. Keep your options open. Don't ignore a new opportunity.

Watch for the number 11 and someone dressed in blue to further enhance your fortune.

PISCES
Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

You've been burning the candle at both ends lately and your body is screaming for you to slow down. Ease up a bit or you'll regret it.

Pay no attention to cynics in your life.

The numbers 60 and 78 prove fruitful and it wouldn't hurt to wear a splash of a bright color.

A small person, perhaps even a child, will bring huge wisdom into life if you listen.

THE FIRST KILL

By JOE KELLY/Weekly World News

Four women went willingly with Harvey Murray Glatman, but only one came back alive. And it was only after a fierce struggle with the creepy killer that the gutsy girl was able to survive and send Glatman on his final journey to the gas chamber.

Glatman was executed in August 1959, after a 16-month spree in which he murdered three women in the Los Angeles area and nearly killed the fourth. The sicko creep told gals he was a photog for a detective magazine, and wanted them for models. Then he'd tie them up, rape them and kill them.

He came to be known as both The Lonely Hearts Killer and The Glamour Girl Slayer. But there was nothing glamorous about his own twisted life.

A short, skinny, jug-eared loner with buck teeth and reeking body odor, Glatman didn't seem like he could get a woman to give him the time of day — let alone agree to be bound and gagged. But that's just how Glatman claimed his first murder victim, in August 1957.

Judy Dull was a sweet-faced 19-year-old divorcee who had signed on with a modeling agency to raise money for a child-custody fight. The agency hooked her up with Glatman, who claimed to be a photographer.

Glatman took the unsuspecting girl to his apartment and asked her to let him tie her up for a detective story involving bondage.

Disgusted but desperate for money, she let him bind and gag her. After untying her, he pulled out a handgun and yelled at her to strip. He began photographing the terrified girl, forcing her into a series of sleazy poses.

Glatman repeatedly raped Dull, keeping her

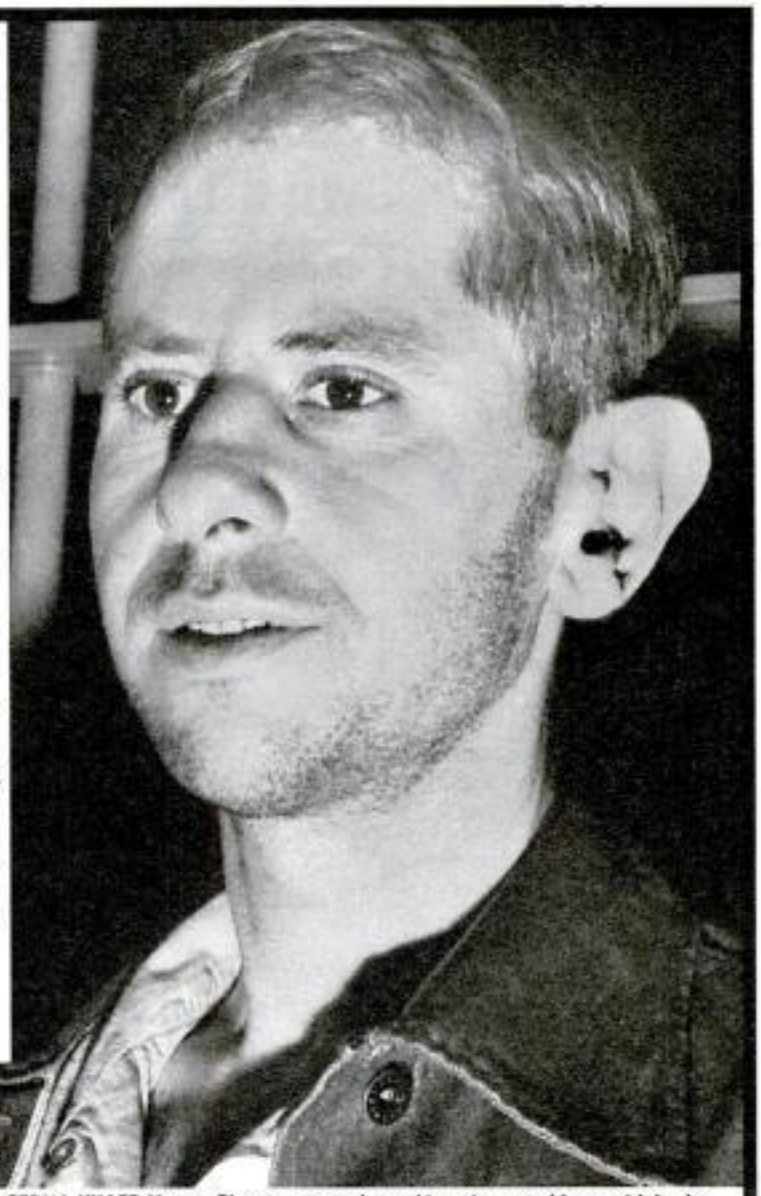
SERIAL KILLER

Sicko creep tricked gals into thinking he was a photog — then bound, raped & killed them!



CONVICTED SERIAL KILLER Harvey Glatman was a short, skinny, jug-eared loner with buck teeth and reeking body odor. You wouldn't think he could get a woman to give him the time of day — let alone agree to be bound and gagged.

bound most of the time.

After several hours he told her he'd take her out of town to release her, and drove 100 miles west of the city — where he hog-tied her and snapped her neck.

Glatman took a few more photos of the dead girl and drove home, his lust satisfied by having totally controlled and debased the woman — and by the slimy souvenirs he had created for himself.

The killing kept him satisfied until seven months later, when he zeroed in on 24-year-old divorcee Shirley Bridgeford. In March 1958, he got a date with her through a Los Angeles "lonely hearts club." But instead of taking her dancing, he drove her into the desert — then yanked out a gun and ordered her to undress.

She begged him to spare her but it did no good. After she stripped, he raped her several times.

Then he took out his camera and took several photos of her, both naked and clothed, while she was bound and gagged.

The sadistic photo session lasted past dawn, when Glatman strangled her.

Then, as with Judy Dull, he took photos of her lifeless body and drove home to finish his sick compulsions in the darkroom.

Four months later, in July 1958, he murdered 24-year-old Ruth Mercado, who was also known as Angela Rojas. He used the number from a modeling agency, and had barely gotten through her door when he pulled out his gun and ordered her to strip. After raping her, he took her out to the desert.

It was near where he'd killed Shirley Bridgeford, and the treatment was the same: Tie her up, snap photos in pornographic poses, kill her. And take more pictures.

Glatman's perverted game ended three months later, in October 1958.

Again posing as a photographer, he found Lorraine Vigil through a modeling agency.

He told her he was taking the heck are we going?" Vigil demanded as Glatman drove faster and faster through areas that grew more and more remote.

He told her to "shut up" but she kept protesting, until he finally screeched the car to a halt and ordered her to stick out her arms — and pulled out a gun for emphasis.

She refused to oblige, and he grabbed at her to try to bind her.

"Let me out!" she cried, fumbling for the car door while fending him off.

Suddenly, she had her hands on the gun, which went off — startling Glatman she tumbled out of the car.

Glatman jumped out and grabbed her — just as two California Highway Patrol troopers drove up in their squad car!

"He had a lunatic stare," Patrolman Tom Mulligan would later recall at Glatman's trial. "I'll never forget that wild look he had in his eyes."

Neither would Lorraine Vigil, whose testimony was enough to nail him for the death sentence.

"It's better this way," Glatman said before breathing in the lethal cyanide in the death cham-

Card No. 3: Queen of Cups
KIND WOMAN

Love: For a man, you can count on the love of a woman with fair coloring and a big heart. For a woman, you have a tendency to give more than you get. Be sure the man you're with is the right one for you.

Money: Your soft heart also makes you a soft touch in money matters. Don't give more than you can truly afford.

Health: Trust your intuition when it comes to health matters. If you don't like what one doctor said, seek

Card No. 5: Lovers
TOUGH CHOICE

Love: You are faced with a difficult choice regarding a lover. Remember, a bird and a fish can fall in love, but where will they live? This time, follow your head rather than your heart.

Money: Be on the lookout for someone who's trying to put their hand in your pocket. Stick with low-risk investments for the time being.

Health: You think you have to choose between familiar discomfort and a treatment with bad side effects. Wrong — keep looking

Card No. 1: Page of Swords
STAY ALERT

Love: You seem to need a reminder that you're a real charmer when you set your mind to it. Whether in a relationship or looking, you can depend on charisma to work magic.

Money: Should you take the job with the big paycheck or the one with less money that promises happiness? For now, bet on the sure thing.

Health: Don't worry about every little ache or pain, but don't ignore something that you know isn't normal for you. Rather

Card No. 2: 7 of Wands
OBSTACLE

Love: Whether single or committed, there's something or someone blocking the way to true happiness. It's not that big; you're just standing too close. Step back and you'll see a way around it.

Money: If you've been turned down for a loan or a job, take heart. Wait a week and try again. The timing and your luck will be better then.

Health: Your health complaint is caused by a minor imbalance. Drink lots of Love: If single, you need to keep an eye out for someone you wouldn't normally notice. If committed, a big problem can be avoided by paying attention to the little clues.

Money: You have a lot of untapped talent. The area in which you are most skilled will now bring you an excellent income or profit. Have faith in your own abilities.

Health: You have a gift for taking care of others and could do well in the

DRIVING LIKE THERE'S NO TOMORROW

Just minutes after making an appointment to renew his driver's license, a 101-year-old man got into a car crash.

But the spry old guy has no intention of retiring from driving. He'll be back to renew, he says — "if I live that long."

Sources say Murray Silver of West Palm Beach, Fla., had just driven away from the license office with a 75-year-old lady pal. Also on the road was 47-year-old Theresa Ann Keys of Lake Worth, Fla.

The two cars hit each other. No one was hurt, and neither got a ticket.

According to sources, Silver has had a few other driving scrapes — but nothing much since he hit a truck as a much younger man of 94. Meanwhile Keys has had two speeding tickets and a citation for driving without lights. Now, Silver will have to take an eye test when he renews his license, but the oldster roadster says the crash has "turned me off driving."

It's all in the family

Cops busted a man after discovering he and his sister were the parents of nine children — plus a dead infant they'd dug from its grave and were keeping in their house!

Samuel Thomas Patrick, 53, was charged with incest, say sources, who placed his nine living children — and four grandchildren — in foster homes.

The family lived in the remote farm and ranch area in the south-central part of Florida.

Lawmen discovered the incest and the infant's body when they went to the home for an unrelated matter. They said Patrick and his sister, Debra Lynn Patrick, were living as husband and wife with their brood.

The Patricks had kept the dead baby's body in the home for 12 years, after secretly digging it up.

Says one officer, "They've done a very good job of staying out of public sight."

Candidate has mesmerizing campaign

A hypnotist-turned-politician promises to put voters under his spell!

"We will bend the voters to my will," says Rajami Singh, who plans to run for mayor of Govindnagar, India.

Singh, who's been a magician since age 6, says he'll hypnotize voters into selecting him. He has hired 200 of his peers to help him put on magic shows and mesmerize voters during the campaign.

His fellow performers also will accompany him — riding motor-

● Thank the Brits for speed limits: The world's first auto speed limit was posted in England in 1903. It was 20 mph. The same year, Alexander Winton set the world land speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla., with a blazing 68.18 mph!

● More than 99.9 percent of all the animal species that have ever lived on Earth were extinct before mankind arrived.

● All the moons of the solar system are named after the gods of Greek and Roman mythology — except the moons of Uranus, which are named after Shakespearean characters.

● Everyone in the Middle Ages believed the heart — not the brain — was the source of human intelligence.

● The first person to die in an airplane crash was Army Lt. Thomas Selfridge, who crashed over Fort Myer, Va., on Sept. 17, 1908. The crash also injured Selfridge's co-pilot: aviation pioneer Orville Wright!

● An English king who couldn't speak English? Yes — King George I was a German prince when he ascended to the throne in 1714. He was 54 and could neither write nor speak his subjects' language.

● The first organized sports cheer, yelled at Princeton in the 1880s, included "Hang on Sloopy," by The McCoys.

● The last Miss Canada was Nicole Dunsdon, who completed her reign in October 1992. Since then, the Great White North has had no Miss Canada competition — women's groups called it degrading to women and got it banned.

● The last original Peanuts comic strip was published Feb. 13, 2000 — the morning after its creator, Charles M. Schulz, died.

● During the U.S. Civil War, 200,000 blacks served in the Union Army. Of those, 38,000 gave their lives and 22 won the Medal of Honor.

● Members of the Nazi S.S. had their blood type tattooed on their armpits.

● Only two people signed America's Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776: John Hancock and Charles Thomson. Most of the rest signed on August 2, but the last signature wasn't added until five years later.

● The first person to lose a U.S. presidential election was Thomas Jefferson. He lost to John Adams. George Washington had been unopposed in his election.

POWERFUL HERBAL FORMULA SHEDS POUND AFTER POUND OF FAT - FAST!

Chinese Diet Tea

You eat your favorite foods - but STILL lose weight!

- Eliminates an amazing 91% of absorbed sugars.
- Prevents 83% of fat absorption.
- Doubles your metabolic rate to burn calories fast.
- Powerful herbal formula helps you stop snacking.

Let this powerful Chinese herbal formula help you to lose those unwanted pounds. Can you imagine losing weight by simply drinking a cup of refreshing tea? Well, that is all you now have to do to lose weight with one of the "easiest" and most effective diets ever discovered. Chinese Diet Tea is a 2000 year old secret remedy now available in the U.S. Obesity is a big problem in Western societies but is almost unheard of in China. That is because millions of Chinese men and women regularly drink herbal tea after every meal. Clinical trials have shown that by drinking a cup of Chinese Diet Tea your body will absorb less sugar and animal fats. Participants on Chinese Diet Tea clinical trials carried on eating a normal healthy measure of sugar and fats - but they still lost weight. Just make sure you drink one cup of Chinese Diet Tea after each meal to neutralize the absorption of fattening foods. You still get the satisfaction and flavor of eating a balanced diet, but without any fattening effects.

Our Guarantee
Chinese Diet Tea has been clinically trialed on 163 patients. All participants lost between 18 lbs and 75 lbs over the 12 week trial period. If you do not lose similar amounts of weight we guarantee to REFUND YOUR PURCHASE PRICE IN FULL (less s/h). REMEMBER, the more Chinese Diet Tea you drink, the more weight you lose!

WARNING: Doctors recommend that weight loss should be achieved gradually over an extended 9-12 week period. We therefore recommend that you do not lose weight too suddenly. If very rapid weight loss occurs, stop taking Chinese Diet Tea for 10-14 days and consult your doctor.

The Chinese Diet Tea's secret herbal ingredients act in four ways to help you lose weight.

1. Reduces sugar absorption by an amazing 91%. This means you can eat sweet buns and chocolate without putting on so much weight. But be careful - drinking Chinese Diet Tea is not a license to gorge yourself.
2. Reduces the absorption of animal fats and dairy products by as much as 83%. This controls the fattening effects of butter, cheese, pate, sausages and fatty meats.
3. Doubles the digestion of food in the intestine. This prevents food laying in your stomach for 24 hours or more and contributing to that "pot belly" look. The faster digestion of food means fewer calories are absorbed into the body.
4. Acts as an effective appetite suppressant to reduce cravings.
